POQUOSON HIGH SCHOOL

Hail Poquoson

There is a place we love to be,
Close by the river shore.
There stands our dear old high school,
Which we'll love forever more.

CHORUS

Oh! Hail to thee, Poquoson High,
With your colors maroon and gold.
Your clubs, your football and such teams,
Each memory dear we'll hold.
Oh! Alma Mater, to thee we sing
Our songs of highest praise,
That through the ages on and on,
Your honor we may raise.

In you, Poquoson High School,
We put our greatest faith.
We know that you, ole P. H. S.,
Will win in every race.

Senior Creed

We, the class of '38, being about to launch forth on the sea of life, pause to take stock of our equipment. We find that our course at P. H. S. has provided us adequately with ideals and ideas which should guide us safely to harbor even in times of storm.

First, and above all, we believe in God, our Creator.

We believe in the United States, which has given us the advantages of a free country.

We believe in Our Mother State and hope to make her future as glorious as her past.

We believe in our Superintendent and School Board and trust that we will always prove worthy of the opportunities they have helped to give us.

We believe in our Principal, Mr. Thomas, who holds our interests very dear to his heart.

We believe in the members of our Faculty, who have labored earnestly in our behalf.

We believe in the Parent-Teachers' Association, which has worked hard to make our School what it is today.

We believe in our Student Government, which has helped us to learn and practice important principles of democracy.

We believe in our sponsor, Miss Hornsby. We assure her that her assistance and cheerful and happy disposition has been greatly appreciated and will be long remembered.

We believe in our Annual, the York Chronicle. May it serve as a golden link between the past and the future.

Lastly, we believe in our Senior Class and in our ability to succeed if we follow our motto, "Grasp the Opportunity."

Log of the Four Year Voyage

As we, the class of '38, face graduation, fond memories of the past mingle with eager hopes for the future.

On September 6, 1934, we began as a class of 96. Our officers were Marion Hornsby, president; Louis Tucker, vice-president; and Robert Firth, secretary and treasurer. In spite of the teasing to which we were subjected, we considered our "rat" year a happy and profitable one. The commercial course was instituted. We were proud to have our pictures in the York Chronicle, which was published for the first time.

On September 7, 1935, we numbered 78 sophomores. We wonder if there was any connection between the establishment of the Home Economics department and the marriage of several of our classmates.

On September 8, 1936, when Mr. Thomas addressed us as "Juniors", we experienced a new determination to "Climb, Climb, though the road be rugged." There were 61 of us. The P. T. A. established the Music department. In June, we entertained the Seniors at Buckroe Beach.

On September 9, 1937, we were Seniors at last. Added responsibilities increased our dignity. 53 of us have grasped the opportunity to win a diploma.

The friendships of our four long years will never be forgotten. Our academic sun is setting but over the horizon we view the Dawn of a New Tomorrow.

Class Prophecy

Tuesday night, while I was studying for my English IV examination, the telephone rang. When I lifted the receiver the excited voice of my friend, Professor Hedison, greeted me. His excitement was so obvious that my first impression was that the chronic malady of madness, from which I had for sometime suspected that he suffered, had reached an acute stage. He said, in effect, that his latest invention, the "Temposcope", was ready for the initial test and that he wanted me to help him make the test. Stirred by many conflicting emotions, I hastened to Professor Hedison's laboratory. He explained that the "Temposcope" was a glorification and perfection of the radio, telescope, and phonograph plus a device which permitted one to look into time as well as space. At his suggestion, as he turned on the current, I made the test. I set the time dial at the year 1950 and shifted the place dial at frequent intervals with the following results concerning my classmates:

Ernest Mackey was in his office in New Jersey completing the plans for the proposed Trans-Atlantic Tunnel.

Fannie Ferguson, Dean of the University of Virginia, was drawing up a new set of social regulations for the University.

Ava Carmines was Superintendent at Walter Reed Hospital. Emma Lee Moore and Pauline Wainwright were nurses there.

Harry Smith was a floorwalker for the men's department of the new Smoothy Department Store in Chicago.

Cecelia Zepnikowski was owner of "Les Grands Magazins du Printemps" in Paris. Ethel Harris and Kathleen Crockett were busy on the same street. They were designing new fall hats.

In a studio in Hollywood, Alfred Belvin was acting as leading photographer for John Ray Forrest, the producer of the film, "When We Grow Up." Louise Hopkins and John D. Griffin were playing the leading roles.

Ellen Cook was in Atlantic City being crowned "Miss America."

Skid Joyner and Raymond Hopkins, two radio comedians, were broadcasting over WLW.

Eleanor Robertson and Josephine Ward were private stenographers for Carlton Lawson and Bertha Watson, attorneys-at-law.

Mary Lou White and Rose Lawson were in Messick entertaining friends in their beautiful modern homes which the famous architect, George Moore, had built.

Estelle Parker and Edna Teagle were hostesses on the new ocean liner, "S. S. Meridian," which Marvin Moore owned.

Frank Wilson was a sales manager for the Ensley and McPherson Motor Company in Newport News.

Shirley Ensley and Celia Forrest were grand opera singers in London.

Winnie Forrest was hostess on a large air liner which her husband operated between Langley Field and Maffete Field.

Charles Carmines was the head of the Carmines Zoological Gardens in Washington, D. C. Mary Firth and Sara Lawson were there making a study of some rare species of alligators.

George Cluverius was driving a Greyhound Bus from Dare to Miami.

Frances Phillips was head of the education department at Fredericksburg State Teachers College.

Roland Harris was attending a Farmers' Convention in Washington. Congressman Arnold Page was delivering an able address on "The Place of the Farmer in the New Social Order." William Sidney Freeman, Maude Insley, and Bessie Williams were there covering the convention for their respective newspapers.

Tom Messick was the owner of a big ranch in Texas.

Franklin Presson and John Bunting were enjoying the luxuries they could so well afford as they were the most prosperous truck farmers in Virginia.

Sarah Lee Williams was happily married and living in Maryland. Her husband was a handsome blonde but I did not know him.

Samuel Hopkins was Clerk of the Court in York County and Carrie Howle was the County Health Nurse.

Ella Williams and Frances Dixon were supervisors of an orphanage in Danville.

Thomas Messick was drawing a new cartoon for the "New York Times."

Lucas Meredith was Principal at Poquoson High School where Margaret Andrews was teaching Home Economics.

Having looked into the future of each of my classmates, I felt a sudden intense desire to be alone with my thoughts. I congratulated Professor Hedison on his wonderful invention, the "Temposcope," thanked him for a most unusual evening, and hastened home.
